Ways to Save When Buying an RV

Purchasing an RV means that you get to go where you want to and you can take to the road in luxury and comfort. Yet, owning an RV also means that you need to insure it. The good news is that it is possible to find some outstanding discounts for these policies.

What Factors Matter? - Many things affect the cost of RV insurance. According to The Law Dictionary, factors such as the make, model and age of the vehicle matter. The risk of break-ins, vandalism and theft also play a role. You'll spend more if you have a luxury vehicle, too.

Claim-Free Discounts - This type of discount provides you with a reduction in premium costs if you do not make claims on your RV insurance policy. For example, some companies will reduce how much you pay annually if you are claim-free for one, two, or five years. This means that you can reduce your costs just by being a safe driver.

Have You Made Your Pledge to DIFF?

The vast majority of us have been there: sitting in heavy traffic, tempers flaring and aggressive drivers cutting in and out of lanes. Now you have a chance to do something about it! For more details on DIFF, and how to make your pledge, you can click here to check out our blog.

Responsible Drivers Discounts - Like the claim-free discount, you may qualify for this one if you are a good driver. If you do not get points on your license, for example, you may get a lower premium or a reduction in your costs. If you are not getting points or any moving violations against you, this means you are a skilled driver and less of a risk to the insurance company.

Paid in Full Coverage - Sometimes, you will qualify for a lower RV insurance rate if you pay the full amount of your policy upfront. The other option is to make monthly payments on your policy. By paying it upfront, the insurance agency does not have to worry that you will miss a payment.

Original Owner Discounts - Some companies will provide you with a lower rate for insurance on your RV if you are the original owner of it. If you are the only person who has owned your RV since its original purchase, let your independent insurance agent know.
